About Our Organization

America Walks is a national nonprofit organization dedicated to creating more walkable and livable places. We work with a diverse coalition of partners by sharing resources, providing technical assistance, and acting as a national voice for the thousands of passionate local, state, and national advocates. Now celebrating over 20 years, we continue to expand our advocacy and programming to position walking as a national priority.

Our Reach

America Walks’ reach extends to all 50 states, Puerto Rico, and the US Virgin Islands. We are constantly exploring new ways to grow and engage our network.

While we may navigate space differently, everyone should have a full range of possibilities and choices available to them when experiencing place.” Juliette Rizzo, former Ms. Wheelchair America
Our Work

We provide programs to tens of thousands of walking advocates each year to improve their efforts in promoting and protecting walkability.

Webinars and Trainings: We host monthly webinars and other online trainings to share expert knowledge, valuable resources, and best practices that can be used in the work of advocates. These trainings help them create better sidewalk systems, make crossings safer, ensure that children can safely get to school, and revitalize downtowns so that foot traffic increases as well as merchant sales.

National Walking Summit: Every other year, we host the National Walking Summit. It is the premier opportunity for community advocates, nonprofit representatives, government officials, and transit, health, and planning professionals to share best practices and stories, increase the visibility of key issues, build support for the walking movement, and create momentum for the work ahead.

Walking College: The Walking College is an interactive, online educational program for walkable community advocates. Each year, Walking College Fellowships are awarded to community change agents working alone, in organizations, or in professions such as public health, planning, transportation, or education, who demonstrate a passion for making their communities more walkable and livable, and a vision for what that would look like.

Advocacy: We, along with our partners, work on developing and promoting campaigns that make walking a national priority. One of the highlights is when America Walks worked with the Surgeon General to release and promote a Call to Action on promoting Walking and Walkable Communities.

Community Change Micro Grants: The Community Change Micro Grant program provides funds that support grassroots efforts aimed at empowering communities to improve walkability. This program has supported everything from new art to improved way-finding, local events to school engagement projects.

Expanding our Work: In addition to fostering our network of local advocates, America Walks is exploring new opportunities for partnerships and engagement with different industries and sectors, including transit, environmental change, and inclusive communities.
The Walking College was an information-expanding experience that keeps propelling me to improve walkability/bikeability and encourage walking and biking for recreation and transit.”
